Catalogue of Available Works

In my artistic journey, I've been drawn to the intersections where styles merge, creating new dimensions of expression. This search led me to forge a style I call Expressive Color Minimalism, a synthesis of Abstract Expressionism, Color Field painting, and Minimalism. It is my way of conveying depth through simplicity.

Expressive Color Minimalism is a process of distillation. From Abstract Expressionism, I channel emotional potency in every stroke and form. From Color Field, I embrace color as narrative, a language of emotion and resonance. From Minimalism, I adopt restraint, ensuring every hue and mark is intentional and deliberate.

My work is a dialogue between vibrancy and void, the intensity of color set against the calm of open space. This tension invites viewers to explore their own emotional landscapes while encountering nuanced simplicity.

To me, Expressive Color Minimalism is more than a style; it is my philosophy and vision, a lens through which I interpret the world. With every piece, I aim to share this vision, offering new perspectives and evoking deep, unspoken emotions.

AMALGAM

Amalgam unites the visual languages that have shaped my artistic journey. Structured geometry and expressive gestures coexist in balance, revealing layers of past ideas rather than hiding them. The work stands as a synthesis of precision and emotion, where all my styles and explorations converge into one cohesive statement.

UNTITLED WORKS

A blend of Abstract Expressionism, Color Field, and Minimalism. Every brush stroke tells a story, where color isn't just visual but an emotional narrative. I strive for balance between vibrant hues and serene spaces, inviting viewers to explore their feelings while admiring the simplicity. It's more than a style; it's my world view, shared through art.

BUILDING BRIDGES SERIES

Building Bridges explores our tendency to build walls instead of connections.

The arch is my central element, a structure that embodies strength, support, and openness within density. It is both threshold and passage, symbolizing movement from one space or state of being to another.

In mythology, arches are seen as doorways in time and space. In architecture, they lift the eye and spirit upward, pointing us toward higher planes and ideals. For me, the arch is a bridge: between division and unity, heaviness and lightness, the material and the spiritual.
